Utilities Proof of Concept (PoC) Bundles

To keep the lights on and water running in a community, utility companies need to create an in-depth technology infrastructure that can help workers not only enable these instrumental services but maintain them and improve them as well. This presents several challenges however:

Field workers have many paper-based processes which benefit from consolidation on a single online-enabled solution.

Aging infrastructure means more human intervention and maintenance is required to keep services running.

Cyberattacks on utilities and IoT infrastructure make security and IT improvements a priority for many companies.

To meet these challenges, choose an Apple PoC bundle made exclusively for utilities:
