Client Access License Datasheet

Are you CAL Compliant?

Being license compliant is a critical part of your datacenter. Client Access Licenses (CALs) are required for users and/or devices accessing and using a server with a Windows Server operating system. Each user or device accessing the server needs a CAL. CALs are not included in the Windows Server operating license and must be purchased separately. Additional CALs may be purchased at any time to accommodate your business' changing needs.

Lenovo makes CAL-compliance easy and cost effective. We sell our CALs in packs of 1, 5, 10 & 50 so you can buy what you need when you need it. Lenovo CALs are portable. They can be used on all server brands. To make your purchasing journey easy and efficient, our CALs have their own Lenovo part numbers.

3 Types of CALs

User CAL

This is for a single user with unlimited devices. Choose this CAL if you have employees who need roaming access to corporate network from multiple devices.

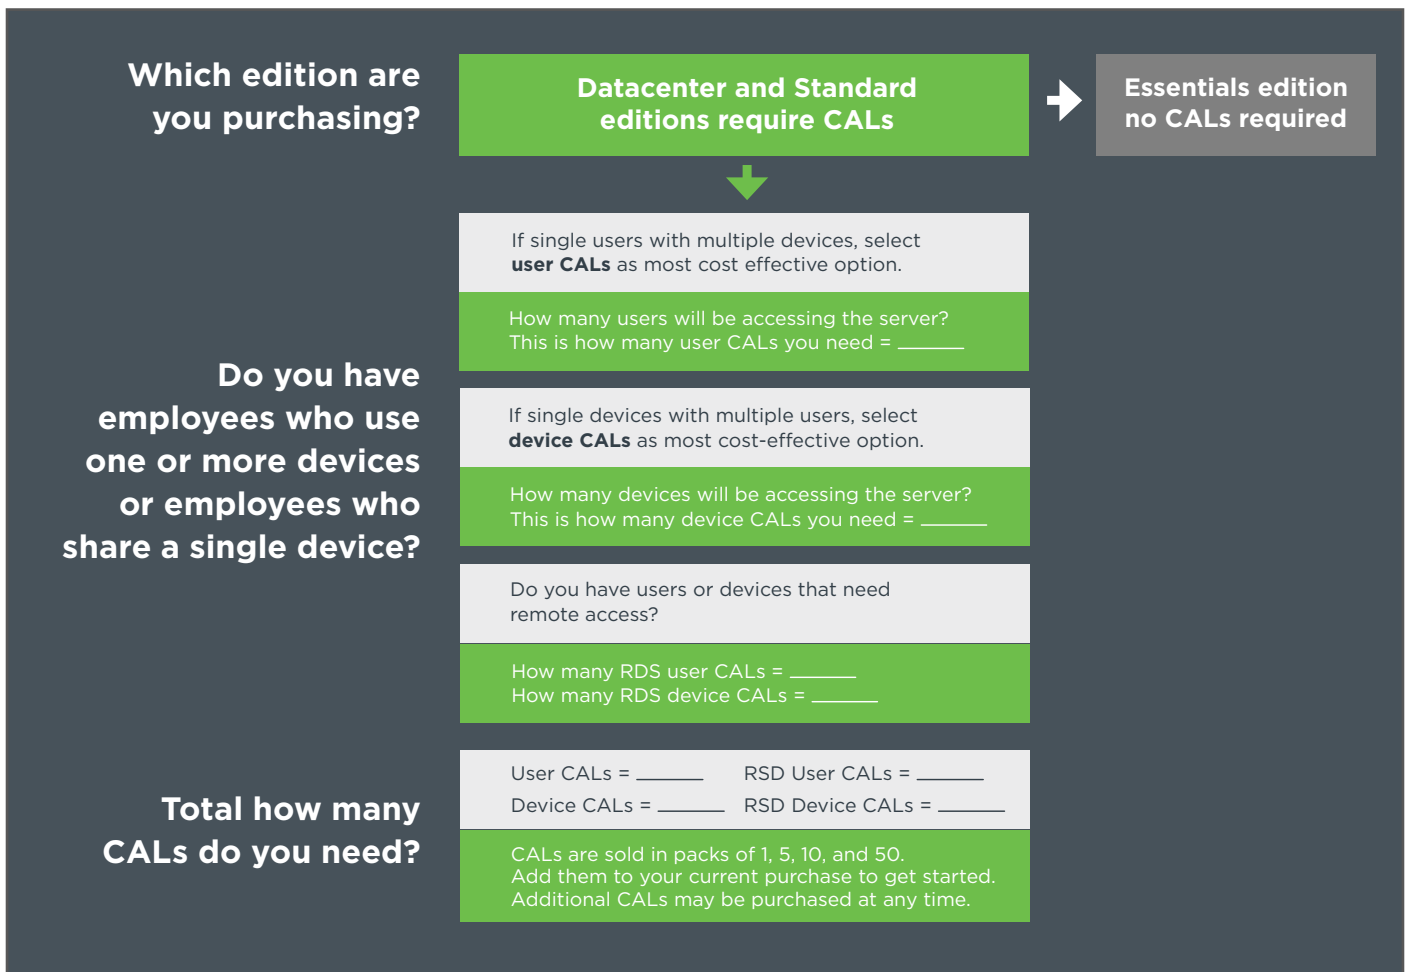

Device CAL

This is for a single device with multiple users. Choose this CAL if multiple people share a single device, such as shift workers.

Remote Desktop Services (RDS) CAL

This is required for remote desktop access. It's in addition to your user and/or device CALs. Add it for users or devices that need remote access.

Quick CAL tips

- ✓ CALs can be bought by users who already have or are buying a Windows Server license. Additional CALs may be purchased after the initial server purchase.
- ✓ Any CAL license type (Lenovo, VL, or Retail) can be used to access any brand server with a Windows Server operating system.
- ✓ CALs are not included with Windows Server 2019. They are sold separately giving you the flexibility to purchase what you need when you need it.
- ✓ You need CALs as soon as users or devices access or use your server.
